

Caroline is an NCIDQ certified interior designer at Gensler Los Angeles. As a workplace design leader, Caroline partners with clients to create innovative and flexible design solutions that reflect each company's unique brand, culture, values, and desired transformation. Her inquisitive approach and ability to synthesize client needs into thoughtful planning and design strategies enables her to create inventive and high-performing workplaces that inspire, engage, and foster connection.

A professional member of IIDA, Caroline serves as co-VP of Professional Development for the Southern California chapter.